Meet our team of world champions who will compete this summer.

After the show meet all the athletes for autographs and photos – YO HO!
Calendars & mini wood axes are easily autographed and make a great souvenir!

Jake Justus: This Missouri native has competed around the world winning the title, "Bull of the Woods" on numerous occasions as well as the prestigious "Heart of STIHL Award" for his grit and valor. He is one of the most talented choppers in the sport today possessing laser like precision and intense power when swinging an axe. He is always a favorite on televised competitions, displaying a wit as sharp as his saw!

Ray Geist: This East coast transplant became involved in timbersports while in college and quickly made it to the pro ranks. Now in his second year, Ray competes side by side with the world's best and is one of timbersports brightest young stars. In addition to his sporting talent, Ray is also a true gentleman in the old school tradition and is always a fan favorite. Keep your eye out for that toothpick clenched in his teeth – he is rarely seen without it.

Michael Haffershide: This talented teenager went straight from high school and into professional competition. A log rolling and sawing champion by the age of 17, Michael was scouted for his raw ability and potential to excel in the sport. After one season training side by side with the pros, Michael has proven that he has the grit and determination to become a force in the sport. Watch out for this young man, he is going straight to the top!

Tyler Rothe: "Red" made a name for himself as the 2010 STIHL Collegiate World Champion and continues to impress today. A lightening fast speed climber and a powerful chopper, he goes full steam ahead at every competition and has a proven track record of success. An avid outdoorsman, he can always be found heading out to hunt or fish and finds just as much success in the outdoors as he does in the competition arena.

Peter Lucas: A collegiate timber champion and avid horseman, Peter is fulfilling a lifetime dream of living in Alaska this summer. His speed climbing and chopping skills made him a natural choice to join our team and during his first season in Ketchikan he hopes to explore our rugged wilderness, fish from dawn till dusk and drink in all that Alaska has to offer.

Tennessee Lee: Your colorful host and mill boss, Tennessee Lee, made his way to Alaska on a wing and a prayer from the Great Smokey Mountains. He worked his way up the ladder at the local lumber mill and today is a chief judge for all the camp competitions.

The Great Alaskan Lumberjack Show is proud to feature many up and coming athletes in timbersports, allowing them the opportunity to train and compete with some of the world's best. If you are lucky enough to see one of them compete today – make sure to get an autograph because the athletes you see today will be the sports stars of tomorrow! YO HO!

Historic Note – The Great Alaskan Lumberjack Show is situated on the site of the old Ketchikan Spruce Mill. The mill was at one time the largest spruce mill in the world. During its history it provided lumber for the 1898 Gold Rush and Alaska's fish canneries.
